

Certified Emissions Repair Facilities, or CERF, are professional automotive repair facilities that must meet specific requirements including employment of Certified Emissions Repair Technician (CERT). CERTs must pass an enhanced emissions training course. These technicians must demonstrate skill in diagnosing and repairing emissions related problems and pass a State certification test administered by the Department of Motor Vehicles.

You or a non-certified automotive facility may repair your vehicle; however, to qualify for a cost expenditure waiver, your vehicle must be repaired by a CERF / CERT.

Disclaimer: Each CERF / CERT must meet strict requirements set by the Connecticut Department of Motor Vehicle (DMV). These facilities listed below are not intended as a recommendation or endorsement by the CT DMV or its I/M Management Contractor, but rather as a resource to help you locate component repair technicians conducting emissions-related repairs.
